

HAUPTMANN SEEN ON LINDY ROAD DAY OF CRIME

NEW DEALERS SEEK WAY TO EVADE COURTSupreme Court Decision
Threat to All
NRA Legislation

Washington, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The New Deal, deprived of a portion of NRA which the Supreme Court tossed out of the window as unconstitutional, still strove today to keep the Federal lid on "hot oil."

At the same time, the belief was expressed in one quarter on Capitol Hill that the high tribunal's act in scrapping oil control provision in the National Industrial Recovery Act spelled the doom of some other New Deal legislation.

Senator Adams (D. Colo.) said some of the laws behind the government's agricultural program contained provisions similar to the oil control features which the Supreme Court killed on the ground Congress had delegated too much law-making power to the President.

May Hit Farm Program
We have gone the whole way in these delegations," said Adams. "It can hardly be expected that the courts will uphold all the delegations Congress attempted. It inevitably will affect some of the agricultural agencies."

The section scrapped by an 8 to 1 decision was 9 (C) under which the government has been undertaking to bar from interstate commerce oil produced in excess of quotas fixed by state agencies. This petroleum is known as "hot oil."

Secretary Ickes, oil administrator, noted that the decision "did not rule on the oil code" embodied in other parts of NRA.

Ickes Plans Battle
"We still have that code and will continue to operate," he declared. "We will attempt to regulate hot oil with every resource we have."

While some oil leaders in the great east Texas field expressed fear the $1-a-barrel price structure would collapse under a flow of illegal oil and strove to prevent a return of "jungle law" in competition, one school of thought in New York contended the code and state regulation combined would handle the situation.

Moves to present new legislation remedying that on which the high court turned thumbs down were already under way.

Another major economic move of the new deal went on trial before the Supreme Court today in a multiple challenge of the historic action of Congress in suspending gold payments.

Another Move on Trial
An estimated 90 to 125 billion dollars in securities were involved as the court began hearing arguments on five cases contesting the administration's right, in pursuing its monetary policies, to halt the payment of gold or its equivalent on securities bearing a "gold clause" calling for such payment.

Government's Brief
"The solvency of many citizens, industries and local governments, perhaps even the financial stability of the national government, may be affected by the determination of this great issue."

The complainants are holders of private or government obligations. They held they were discriminated against when the government went off the gold standard and called in all monetary gold.

Attorney General Homer Cummings himself heads the lawyers presenting the government's case. In three of the cases, lower courts have ruled against the complainants.

Wrist Watch Only Clue
on Badly Charred Body
Wheaton, Ill., Jan. 8.—(AP)—To a heat-warped wrist watch, its identification numbers still intact, authorities turned today to shed light on what they believe was the cremation of a gangland victim.

The discovery of a bullet in the charred remains of a body found Sunday in a fire-swept barn near here prompted investigators to look to Chicago's underworld for a solution.

Evidence indicated the contents of a five gallon can of gasoline had been sprinkled over the victim and barn and ignited.

The remains were said by Coroner Paul A. Isherwood to be those of a man of small stature.

11 Indian Soldiers
Die in Plane Crash
Karachi, India, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Eleven Indian soldiers were killed and 11 others were seriously injured today when an airplane of the Indian air force crashed into troops during maneuvers near the Hubb river.

The pilot, flying Officer H. C. Sircar, and his observer were slightly injured. The plane was wrecked.

The Hubb river, also known as the Hab, is in western India. It flows into the Arabian sea.

Illinois Relief Load Reached New High in December With 302,260 of State's Families on Relief Rolls

Chicago, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The state relief load in December soared to its highest peak in 29 months with 302,260 families receiving aid, the Illinois Emergency Commission announced today.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission, said preliminary reports showed the December load was an increase of 4.6 per cent over the 289,040 total of the preceding month. However, he said the anticipated seasonal increase between the two months is 13 per cent.

The peak record of 322,000 families on relief was established in March 1933, and the following month 316,141 resident families received aid. Until last December, the load did not again reach the 300,000 mark.

The largest December increase was recorded in downstate counties, where the load rose from 141,425 in November to 151,253 in December, for a gain of 6.3 per cent. Cook county's increase from 137,727 to 141,352 in the same period was 2.6 per cent.

Of the total relief load, 1,049 families received drought relief only.

The increase was generally attributed to completion of harvests in a number of rural counties.

ALLEGED LEGAL AID OF BANDITS
ANSWERS CHARGE

Former Chicago Prosecutor Placed on Trial in U. S. Court

Chicago, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The people of the United States called Louis Piquett, one time city prosecutor, to the bar of justice today to answer the charge that he harbored John Dillinger, the slain Indiana outlaw.

Piquett's trial before Federal Judge William H. Holley marks another step by the government to punish those who allegedly aided the late public enemy No. 1, and may determine for the first time how far a lawyer may go in giving legal aid to a client.

Piquett contends he violated neither the law nor the ethics of the legal profession.

J. Albert Woll and Horace Hagan, special assistants to the Attorney General, were on hand to aid local government attorneys in the prosecution of Piquett. Present also were three principal witnesses whose testimony the government will use in its attempt to convict the attorney.

Three Have Confessed
The witnesses are Dr. Harold Bernard Cassidy, Dr. Wilhelm Looser and Arthur O'Leary. Piquett's former investigator, Drs. Cassidy and Wilhelm have admitted performing face-lifting operations on Dillinger while a nation-wide search for the killer was at its height. All three witnesses have pleaded guilty to the same charge facing Piquett.

The two physicians and the lawyer's former investigator, are expected to support the government's charge that Piquett arranged the fact-lifting operations to aid Dillinger evade capture. The trial may also bring out evidence to support the rumor that money as well as a wooden gun were used in Dillinger's escape from the Crown Point jail.

A special venire from which the jury will be chosen was called by Judge Holley.

Flemington Trial
is Unusually Swift

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 8.—(AP)—The Hauptmann trial is proceeding at an average rate of 180 words a minute, the official court reporter estimated today, one of the fastest records of court proceedings in the history of American criminality.

When Betty Goo was on the stand, there were times when the court record reached a peak of 250 words a minute.

During yesterday's session, lasting 301.25 minutes, more than 55,000 words were spoken officially, making 262 pages for the court reporter's transcript, the heaviest day so far.

License Refused
Interviewed at the close of the council session when the commissioners met with Mr. Barrett, Commissioner Tyler stated that he had asked Mr. Barrett if he proposed to permit dancing and serve ginger ale to patrons who brought their own liquor, to which an affirmative answer was given. Commissioner Tyler then stated that he asked why a beer license was not sought and failed to receive a satisfactory reply.

Other members of the council then cited criticisms which had come to their attention and the commission took no action and the application for the soft drink license. Leaving the conference, however, some of the council members stated that they would not favor granting such a license. Commissioner Cal Tyler was explicit in stating his stand and said:

"I will never sanction the granting of a license where there is a probability of the place becoming a nuisance in any way shape or form as I do not believe that the people of Dixon want this sort of thing."

SUIT DISMISSED
Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8.—(AP)—A suit seeking to compel Edward J. Barrett, state auditor of public accounts, to pay dividends for the Kaspar American State bank of Chicago which closed two years ago, was dismissed by Circuit Judge L. E. Stone.

WANTS STAMP VENDERS

MEETING NIGHT

Commissioners Convene Friday Evenings Hereafter

The regular weekly sessions of the city council are to be changed from Monday to Friday evenings. The city commission met last evening in their weekly session and transacted only routine business. Three sets of resolutions were presented and adopted allocating the city's share of the gasoline tax refund to improvement projects.

The first of these provided for the expenditure of the sum of $10,000 on Fifth street from Highland to Devel avenues, which is to be improved by the application of a black top substance.

The second resolution provided for the use of the sum of $950 of the gas tax refund to be applied on a deficit on the paving on Lincoln avenue from Third street south to the city limits. The third resolution provided for the use of a sum of $800 from the same source to be used in meeting a deficit on the paving on Fourth street from Lincoln avenue, west to the city limits.

At the close of the meeting Ray Barrett, manager of the Hotel Dixon, went into a conference with the council members. Before the council meeting closed, he asked what action had been taken by the body with reference to an application filed by him for a soft drink license and was told that the subject would be discussed at the close of the meeting. The hotel proprietor was accompanied by a delegation which remained until the close of the conference.

-- FOG IS GENERAL --

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A "pea soup" fog—the dread of mariners—led shipping in knots along the northeastern Atlantic seaboard today.

Inland, in the Midwest, like Chicago and Omaha and hampered highway and railroad traffic generally. Rain and snow were counted on to dissipate it.

Unseasonal warmth following on cold and snow was responsible for the heavy weather.

Trans-Atlantic liners, some as much as 24 hours overdue at their piers, were held outside New York and Boston harbors' fog-bound channels.

The warm weather also brought the most serious ice jam in the St. Lawrence river in nearly a century. A 20-foot wall of ice went out late yesterday and last night, leaving a trail of wrecked buildings and flooded land in its wake today.

At the peak of the jam, the river rose 12 feet.

Funeral of John
Emory Thursday

The funeral of John Emory, resident of Dixon for the past 60 years, will be conducted from the family residence, 1503 First street Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. A. G. Suchting, pastor of the Immanuel Lutheran church will conduct the service and interment will be in Oakwood.

Coroner Frank M. Banker conducted an inquest at the Preston mortuary this morning at 9 o'clock. Mrs. Minnie Budlong, a sister who found the body in the yard in the rear of the home at noon yesterday, and John P. Bush, a neighbor, testified.

The jury returned a verdict finding that death was due to an embolism. The testimony indicated lack during the past few months.

Mr. Emory was born in Franklin Grove, April 2, 1851 and came to Dixon at the age of three years where he had since resided. At the time of his sudden passing he was 83 years, eight months and five days of age. He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Minnie E. Budlong, Mrs. George Feeney of Chicago and Miss Anna at home.

Eleven States to Move for Uniformity in Motor Vehicle Regulation

Chicago, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The present legislative season will see at least 11 of the states drawn closer toward uniformity of motor vehicle regulation and committed to a program of great safety on the highways, Hubert R. Gallagher, research consultant of the American Legislators Association, said today.

Legislatures of 11 states—Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming—are now considering. Gallagher said, recommendations framed by the western bus and truck conference last year. Two meetings were held, one at Salt Lake City in June and another at Phoenix, Ariz., last month, both organized by the American Legislators Association.

Mrs. Blackledge Has Been Given a Respite

Chicago, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The jail cell she has dodged for nearly a year has been moved at least three months more away for Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackledge, former collector of internal revenue here.

Found guilty of alienating the affections of Policeman Norman E. Nottingham to the extent of $7,500, Mrs. Blackledge was ordered to pay up a year ago or go to jail, as the judgment contained a malice count.

Pleading inability to pay, Mrs. Blackledge has petitioned for a writ of habeas corpus to save her from jail, and yesterday Judge David continued the matter to April 6, holding that no action shall be taken until the state supreme court reviews an appeal she has filed.

GOVERNMENT TO SEEK BACK TAX
FROM AL CAPONE

Will Ask Judgment to Secure $391,506 in Income Levies

Washington, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The government will appear soon before the United States Board of Tax Appeals in an effort to collect $391,506 in back income taxes and penalties from Al Capone, now serving an eleven-year sentence for tax evasion.

Witnesses in support of the government's claim are being rounded up quickly with a view to presenting to the board at an early hearing evidence to prove that Capone had income from gambling and other operations totaling more than a million dollars for the years 1925 to 1929, inclusive. The arguments will be heard in Chicago.

It is not likely that Capone will be released from prison to attend the hearing. He probably will be represented by his attorney, Michael J. Ahern, of Chicago.

Through Attorney Ahern, Capone has made the claim that to assess the penalties proposed by the bureau would constitute "double punishment" and destroy his constitutional rights in view of the fact that he now is being punished for evasion of the questioned income taxes.

"All a Mistake" is Farley Explanation

Washington, Jan. 8.—(AP)—"It was all a mistake,"

That was the explanation made today by Postmaster General Farley in answer to complaints of the Norfolk, Va., Philatelic Society that he had distributed to friends sheets of stamps not available to the public.

He told reporters several sheets of commemorative stamps were purchased by him and his associates for gifts to friends. President Roosevelt, Mrs. Roosevelt, Secretary Ickes and Colonel Louis McHenry Howe, presidential secretary, received some.

"The worst part of it was," Farley said, "when Mother's Day stamp came out. I think Mrs. Roosevelt got one of the sheets and another got loose. That's probably the one that is down in Norfolk. I autographed it myself. It was all a mistake. That's what caused all this embarrassment. All these sheets were bought and paid for."

Franklin Grove Oil
Station was Robbed

The Standard Oil service station operated by Orville Brindle at Franklin Grove on the Lincoln Highway was entered and robbed during the night, an entrance being gained by breaking a glass and unlocking a door from the outside. The place was ransacked and a radio which was recently purchased was disconnected and hauled away. The stock of candy, cigars, cigarettes and gum and six quarts of oil were also stolen. The robbery was discovered when the station was opened for business this morning and Sheriff Miller went to Franklin Grove to conduct an investigation.

New Jersey State Recovery Act Abolished by Proclamation of Acting Governor, a Republican

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 8.—(AP)—The New Jersey state industrial recovery act was no more today, terminated under a proclamation by Acting Governor Clifford R. Powell.

The acting governor, a Republican occupying the executive chair as 1934 Senate president, abolished by his proclamation yesterday the act governing 17 industries.

Since the national recovery act, in effect, the acting governor said, the emergency state recovery act was designed to meet "no longer exists" and the general welfare of the citizens of this state will best be served by removing the tenets of the state recovery administration from business.

Although the act had been the target for legislative debate for a year, both Republican and Democratic legislators expressed surprise at the action. Powell said it was taken without the knowledge of the Republican governor-elect, Harold G. Hoffman, who had left the state to prepare his inaugural address.

The act, passed in September, 1933, was designed to cooperate with national codes by organizing New Jersey business. The administration spent about 741,000 a year.

Aged Former Neighbor Of Lindy Saw Suspect In An Auto In Which Was Ladder

Pointed Palsied Finger at Bronx Carpenter in Melodramatic Surprise of Morning Session Today

BULLETIN

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 8.—(AP)—John Perrone, New York taxicab driver, today identified Bruno Richard Hauptmann as the man who gave him one dollar to deliver a note to Dr. John F. Condon in March 1932.

By WILLIAM A. KINNEY

(Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press)

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 8.—An aged former neighbor of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh pointed a palsied finger at the accused Bruno Richard Hauptmann today and declared he saw him near the Lindbergh home on the day Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., was stolen from his crib and slain.

The aged witness, Amandus Hochmuth, 87, positively identified Hauptmann as a man in dirty green automobile who passed his home on March 1, 1932, turned into the Lindbergh road and "glared at me as if he saw a ghost!"

The melodramatic surprise heightened by the extinguishing of the courtroom lights just as the old man first pointed accusingly at Hauptmann—was sandwiched between two other highlights of the morning session.

No Finger Prints
The state failed in its second attempt to get the ladder down which it contends the baby was carried to its death, into evidence, and the defense pursued a vigorous attack upon the efficiency of the New Jersey police after two state troopers testified they could find no fingerprints in the Lindbergh nursery, on the ladder, or on the ransom note which Lindbergh found on the nursery window sill.

The defense successfully blocked the ladder from evidence on the ground that it had not been properly identified.

The court ruled, however, that the ladder could be again offered into evidence after more identification testimony about it had been presented.

Hochmuth, who turned out to be the notorious old man who paced the jail in front of Hauptmann's cell several weeks ago, electrified the packed court when he gave his testimony. And there was a gasp when he stepped down from the stand and gingerly touched the Bronx carpenter with his hand.

Hauptmann rolled his head negatively back and forth.

Home Near Lindberghs
The old man testified he was standing on the porch of his home in the forenoon on March 1, 1932. His home, he explained, was on the main highway intersection with the lane that runs to the Lindbergh place at Hopewell.

"Well," he said, "I saw a car coming around the corner, pretty good speed and I expected it to turn over on the ditch. And as the car was about 25—I should judge about 25 feet away from me, the man in there looked out of the window like this—"

He turned his head toward the jury to show them how.

"—And he glared at me as if he saw a ghost."

Hochmuth, a nervous old man with a Van Dyke beard, said he saw Hauptmann in the automobile in which he carried a ladder.

Pointed to Accused
The old man pointed to the Bronx carpenter with a shaky finger.

"There he is!"

Attorney General David T. Wilentz requested the gray-bearded man to step down and place his hand upon Hauptmann's shoulder.

Edward J. Reilly, defense counsel objected, and before the point could be argued, Hochmuth declared:

"He's the man between the state trooper and the man in a white shirt."

Nevertheless, he was allowed to step down and make more positive identification. He approached the accused carpenter gingerly, placed his hand on his shoulder and quickly withdrew it.

Accused Shook Head
Hauptmann shook his head in short negative rolls.

The old man trembled violently as he gave his testimony. His shaky voice was almost inaudible, but he managed to tell that he saw a car turning into the Lindbergh lane at Hopewell on the night of the kidnapping and stop briefly.

"Do you remember the color of the car?" Wilentz asked him.

"Yes, a dirty green," he said.

Reilly stalked over to the witness and began his cross-examination in a loud voice.

Big Surprise of Day
Hochmuth was a surprise to the whole court array. His name was not distinctly called and few knew who he was. He came to the stand, a small, gray man dressed in a gray suit. He was almost palsied in his movements.

His eyes peered solemnly from behind heavy gold-rimmed spectacles at Hauptmann, but his face was a blank.

Wilentz opened his examination by asking him what he saw on the afternoon of March 1, 1932.

His voice came slowly through his beard. He saw an automobile round a turn near his home, he said, and he saw a man's face turned "like this." He turned his head toward the jury to illustrate.

"He looked as if he had seen a ghost," he said.

Pointed to Defendant
Reilly objected to the old man's comment, but Wilentz urged him on, asking him if he could remember the man he had seen. The aged witness trembled, said "yes" and immediately raised his shaking arm to point to Hauptmann.

"That man there next to the

Internal Revenue Tax Collections Mount 42 Per Cent

Washington, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A jump of 42 per cent in internal revenue taxes collected by the government in the fiscal year ended last Jun 30 was announced at the treasury today.

Collections amounted to $2,300,816,308, a gain of $680,977,084, or 42 per cent, over the fiscal year 1933. This was exclusive of agricultural adjustment taxes which totaled $71,422,685.64 during the year. The gain in general revenue reflected additional levies and increases in collections on old ones. A statement by the internal revenue bureau showed that income tax collections amounted to $817,025,339.72, compared with $736,791,404.11 for the preceding year, a gain of 9 per cent. Collections of miscellaneous internal revenue taxes amounted to $1,483,790,969.19, as compared with $873,047,820.19 the previous year, representing a gain of 70 per cent.

The state of New York led all others in total collections, returning $569,002,270.54, or 21.26 per cent of the total. New Mexico, on the other hand, returned the smallest amount of any state, $870,198.12, or 0.37 per cent of the total.

Closures of 295 Banks for Year $16,815,793

Chicago, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A total of $16,815,793.84 in dividends flowed from 295 closed Illinois banks in 1934 to more than a half million depositors. Edward J. Barrett, state auditor, announced today.

Of the total, $8,843,064.12 went to 234,381 depositors in 241 banks outside Cook county. Cook county's 54 closed banks paid $7,972,729.72 to 265,000 depositors.

Outside Cook county the largest payment was at the Ridgely-Farmers State Bank at Springfield, where 7,867 depositors received $755,964.74. Other large payments to depositors were to the First Carroll County bank at Mt. Carroll where 2,787 depositors received $459,111.24; and the Cairo-Alexander county bank at Cairo where $393,822.93 was disbursed to 1,914 depositors. The First State Bank & Trust Company of Canton, with 2,366 depositors received $277,014.28.

Barrett reported that William L. O'Connell was receiver for 263 of 295 banks making disbursements.

Grain Marketing to be Theme of Parley

Chicago, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Grain marketing problems and related subjects will be aired here tomorrow when hearings get under way at the Sherman hotel before a commission of the Illinois Farmers Grain Dealers Association.

Originally scheduled for today, the hearings were postponed because of delay in the arrival of witnesses. The sessions will be conducted by Homer B. Grommon, president of the association, and chairman of the committee of three.

H. M. Conway, economist of the National Livestock Marketing Association, is expected to be the first witness.

The commission represents several hundred thousand farmer stockholders and patrons through the grain belt with investments in cooperative country elevators exceeding $100,000.

POLITICAL AND ECONOMIC TREND ABROAD IS TOLD

Interesting Letter is Received From Student Now in Paris

Dixon citizens interested in the development of political and economic trends abroad affecting the world depression and the economic situation of our own nation will be interested in the analysis by a gentleman in Paris, a friend of Mrs. Eustace E. Shaw, who is traveling and enough of a student to speak with authority.

He has been in all the European countries, speaks several languages, fluently and has made a searching study into the causes of world depression in the light of past history. He peaks with the ability and consciousness of an historian.

Following is the letter:
You ask where I am. And you might well have asked, where am I? The latter would not be so easy. It is a good deal like the world situation. Years ago a great number of us, especially the younger members, felt able and willing to undertake to furnish a dependable answer to any question propounded to us relating to the past, the present or the future. I think that now there is a surprisingly large proportion of the folks in the world who adopt just the opposite attitude. We just don't know nothing about nothing, and we are willing to admit it openly. We might as well.

As to the United States. I do not know where you are going. I did not know the other day that even good old Illinois, one of the states that were put and stayed put in the Republican ranks so that there was little occasion to worry or wonder about election results, has gone deeper and deeper Democratic. I do not know anything about your local affairs, but probably some of your friends got hurt in the reshuffle of the New Deal. In general I have been inclined to guess that Roosevelt would not have much of a chance two years hence, but the way his party won in this off year should make one cautious, and so it may be well to make plans based on the assumption that the present regime will be with us for a total of eight years. Of course a lot of water is going to go down under both of your bridges in that time.

Vote Not Due to Number
And, too, it can hardly be assumed that the big vote was due alone to the influence of the great number who are enjoying the bounty, directly and indirectly, of government bodies. It must be that a large number of substantial citizens, professional men, business men and land owners are convinced that the present radical departure is the best thing for all concerned. Probably many of them realize that the debt situation is going to be serious in the years to come, but they consciously close their eyes to that and are intent only on the present hoped-for respite from the appalling depression into which the country fell. And so it would seem that all the rest are forced to make the best of the situation and the only thing they can do is to derive from the actual state of affairs any legitimate benefit that comes their way. If later on there are not scandals arising out of the disbursement of these huge amounts of public funds, it will be a miracle. When we know that men will be dishonest in time of war and national danger, it is not to be expected that they will be the same at such a time as this.

We get quite a number of industrial and financial periodicals. A reading of them leads me to a few general deductions. I think the banking and financial circles are convinced that they have already derived all the benefits that could be expected out of the new regime. They do not want a central banking system, with large numbers of branches, similar to the Bank of England, and the Bank of France, and the small number of central private banks. Industry is not yet sure there is not still something to expect from the government. But industry has had time to appraise the New Deal, and is becoming vocal, and by united action it expects to stem the so-called radical tendency of the government. Agriculture is not fully satisfied with all the efforts that have been made to better its condition, but on the whole is disposed to go along. Organized labor is fairly well satisfied with what they have gotten, but of course will continue to ask for more. I doubt if they will squeeze much more out of the government. Industry has been forced to express a recognition of claims that have been put forth vigorously for decades. That of "representation by persons of their own choosing" has been a slogan for many years. I listened to John Spargo, Samuel Gompers, President Elliott and others in 1919 in Washington, at the conference called by Pres. Wilson. And that was the theme that ran through all their discourses.

Abuse Destroys Abuse of power on the part of any portion of society usually results in the diminution or destruction of that power. In the case of banking and industry, the government, in exchange for the great assistance extended, demanded and obtained the right to exercise a considerable control over their activities. It does seem logical that labor in exchange for the support of the government should come more under the influence of same. And it may turn out that one of the major difficulties that confront the President is that of controlling the actions of labor. This is going to be difficult, because of the great numbers involved, and too, because of the alignment of the agricultural classes with labor. This alliance is not spontaneous or hearty, but both parties seem to feel that they have interests that coincide, and that to further them it is wise to walk side by side. Labor has always said they were exploited by finance and industry. In recent years agriculture has grown to feel that the same applies to them. Their calamities have been many and great, and it is very human to seek a cause for our ills outside of ourselves and our actions.

I believe that relatively few persons in the United States realize to what an extent their economic difficulties are traceable to changes which have taken place, and which continue to take place in other parts of the world. For years I have spoken and written on this one point, but without arousing much interest. Even before the war far-reaching shifts were taking place, and the war accelerated the pace mightily. Without going back too far, let us review the situation in Asia from India to the Mediterranean, and the lands bordering on that body of water, notably Italy. With the fall of Constantinople and the consequent interruption of commerce, the great producing areas of the world were relatively isolated. Italy degenerated lamentably. But deprived of the sources of numberless articles from that source, the European states were kicked into production of the same things, or substitutes. Northern Europe thrived on the ruins of what was formerly a major portion of the Roman Empire. The discovery of America opened up new sources of supply, principally of raw materials. Europe faced westward and the territories to the east and south declined in consequence.

The growth of America and notably the United States, was financed from the proceeds of exports of raw materials: cotton, tobacco, sugar, furs, minerals and metals, live stock and grain. Some of these products became scarcer and dearer when drawn from the States. Foreign customers, and particularly Europe, began to look about for more abundant and cheaper sources. During the railroad building epoch much capital was supplied from Europe, and the countries lending the money were well prepared to take in exchange what was available for export. It was assumed when the lines were run across the continent that these could be paid for by the produce which would come from the areas opened up. The companies loaning the money sent to the States much of the manufactures needed to build and equip the railroads and the cities that grew along the right of way. It was a natural and sound exchange, an ideal economic situation.

Then came our own industrial era, and with it the ever increasing tariffs. Exports from Europe were declining; the exchange question came into the picture, and to seek accelerated the tendency to this. The financing and rebuilding of Canada was a coup for the story in the States. England was a great customer, but for financial and perhaps, to some extent for sentimental reasons—not to speak of the political wisdom of making strong any appendage of the Empire, she became more disposed to give consideration to the development of trade with Canada. It is necessary only to mention the timber, grain and live stock element to see how the prosperity of our west was being undermined.

We were told at school, so it must be true, that cotton (malse), potatoes and tobacco were found by Europeans in America. Now cotton is cultivated in many parts of the world. Argentina alone is a formidable competitor. How many Americans know that Germany and Poland produce and consume more potatoes than do the United States? Tobacco production is wide spread and voluminous.

Africa has been coming forward as a source of raw materials. England, France, Belgium and no doubt other countries are fostering the production of raw materials, food stuffs, cotton, woods, minerals and live stock, fruits, vegetables and some manufactures.

The production of copper in the Belgian Congo at a cost much lower than that in the States and even in South America has dealt a sad blow to what once was an important industry in the States, as far as export is concerned. The abundant supply of gold in South Africa made unprofitable that production in much of the United States until recently.

With the opening up of South America Europe was called on for capital. In granting this many bankers stipulated that materials for the construction should come from their respective countries. And to assist in keeping the exchange in balance, so that the funds could be repaid, the loaning countries favored the importation of goods from those new countries. Due to the low standard of living those South American countries could furnish many things formerly drawn from the States at much lower prices—and the consequences were inevitable. Added to this is the fact that the money of the South American countries was often at a discount, which made it advantageous to trade there rather than with the States where the dollar was on the gold basis.

Cotton is a major item in the American Economy. There have been years when about half of the world's demand could be supplied from outside the United States. Now that cotton with us is higher in price those sources will again take on life. It is said that Brazil is admirably adapted for the production of cotton. If our cotton remains high in price that source will very likely be developed. As with rubber, it is not impossible that the principal European users of cotton will finance the extension of cotton production in Brazil.

The development of the United States was fostered and accelerated by the possession of abundant raw materials. The States enjoyed a practical monopoly for a long period. It would seem that that favored position has been slipping away for decades, and it is hard to believe that it is destined to return. Our national economy will have to be developed on another basis.

To relate all of the foregoing to the present. When the present government is advancing great sums of money for relief, it must be assumed that the persons in charge believe that the depression is but temporary, and that within a relatively short time the United States will be working and earning somewhat as they did in the boom post-war days. Otherwise, how could they assume that the debts being incurred now can be repaid—without inflation. And inflation is a nice way of robbing those who have the misfortune to have.

I was up in Holland for ten days. I rather like that country. The food is wonderful, and life has a placid trend. I read in a book that the average altitude of the country is 37 feet above sea level. Few of the fine cattle there are ever more than three or four feet above water all their lives. They do not seem to mind. My job has been to study the situation to try to guess whether it would be prudent to build a plant there. My feeling for the moment is "no." And "I'll tell you for why." Currency is gold, cost of living and producing is high. Germany and Belgium can produce more cheaply. And there are very low tariffs, the other boys could jump right over them. We can ship in from Belgium cheaper than manufacture there (in Holland). But there is a strong nationalist spirit developing there, and some Dutch makers are running away with the business, because for government work their wares are prescribed. You would be surprised at the sorrows of the poor capitalists.

Cordially yours,
Kearns (Francis Jerome)

Aged Former—

trooper," he declared.
An eerie accident heightened the drama of the old man's declaration five ceiling lights, suspended on long chains, were suddenly extinguished.
The auto lane leading into the Lindbergh estate was described by Hockmuth as "Lindy's road."
He saw the auto, in which he alleged he saw Hauptmann, he said, because he thought it might be Lindbergh passing.

Gave Age as 87
Hockmuth said he was 87 years old.
His testimony increased the volume of the boom in Reilly's cross-examining voice.
"Did that state trooper point out Bruno Richard Hauptmann to you as he sat in his seat?" he belted.

"No!" came a spirited answer from the old man (malse).
Witnesses accused Reilly of badgering his witness Justice Thomas W. Trenchard saw no badgering and let Reilly go on.
Story Unshaken
No questions could shake the old man's positiveness, and he was excused from the stand after Reilly got him to say he had not discussed his identification of Hauptmann with anyone.

Hockmuth turned out to be the mysterious old man who paced the jail in front of Hauptmann's cell some weeks ago.
Prior to his startling testimony, the defense had launched a vigorous attack upon the efficiency of New Jersey police after two officers testified they could find no fingerprints in the nursery from which the Lindbergh baby was stolen, nor on the ladder down which the state contends the baby was carried to his death, nor on the ransom note that was left on the window sill.

The officers questioned were Frank A. Kelly, police fingerprint expert, and Nuncio de Gaetano.
"Expert" Attacked
Kelly's status as an "expert" was attacked by Attorney Reilly in cross-examination.
After an exchange with the witness about the Bertillon system, which Kelly declared was obsolete as an identification means, Reilly pressed him:
"Now you want us to believe, do you, that although Mrs. Lindbergh had been in the nursery that evening, Miss Gow had been over to the medicine cabinet and the medicine table and given the child, I believe, cough mixture and had rubbed the child's chest with a jar of Vicks and had been around the medicine table, shown in the state's exhibit S-9, you could find no finger prints?"

"Of value," Kelly qualified.
Reilly quarreled with the witness on his method of taking fingerprints, drew from him a statement of the process he used, and then charged that his method destroyed prints which could have been preserved.

The kidnap ladder precipitated today the first major clash of attorneys, arguing heatedly over it should be admitted as evidence in the trial.

Called Mere "Scenery"
Hauptmann's defenders, contemptuously referring to the ladder as mere "scenery," pitched in for a last-ditch fight to thwart its addition to the state's array of exhibits.
The prosecution, balked yesterday in its first attempt to introduce the ladder as evidence, was equally determined to win this first legal fray of the five-day old trial.

The ladder stood in court as a challenge to the opposing counsel, Justice Trenchard having ruled it should be subject to examination by witnesses until its admissibility is determined.
Prospects were that the controversy would consume the greater part of the day, probably precluding the appearance of Dr. John F. Condon on the witness stand.

State attorneys said they would place the Lindbergh ransom intermediary on the stand if other witnesses were disposed of quickly, but that otherwise the retired Bronx educator would not be sworn in until tomorrow. The state, it was explained, does not wish to keep him on the stand more than one day.

Betty Gow Excused
Miss Betty Gow, slender Scotch nurse of the slain Lindbergh baby, who collapsed yesterday after three hours on the stand, was excused from today's session to rest.
She was in seclusion at the Morrow estate in Englewood, where Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh are staying, and prosecutors said she would not be asked to reappear before tomorrow.

The state hailed her as "an excellent witness," but Reilly, who brought out on cross examination that she probably had mentioned the presence of the Lindbergh baby at Hopewell to her sailor friend, Henry (Red) Johnson, said of her testimony:
"Much of it will dovetail into that which we are going to bring up."

Witnesses Kidnapers?
Reilly, reaffirming his intention to name the two men and two women he believe guilty of the crime, said he will attempt to trace the kidnaping to "some of those who have already testified and some of those who will testify for the prosecution."

Corporal Frank A. Kelly, state police fingerprint and identification expert, was to be called back to a state witness today, and the crowds came early, defying the cold fog that dampened the old Hunterdon county courthouse.

On completion of a direct testimony, a harsh cross-examination, bristling with accusations of police inefficiency in preserving clues, was in store for the Corporal.

St. Lawrence Water-Way Treaty May Not be Given to Senate

Washington, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Senator Lewis (D. Ill.) said today there is a possibility the St. Lawrence waterway treaty with Canada may not be submitted for ratification this session because of impending elections in the Dominion.

President Roosevelt indicated several weeks ago he would send a revised treaty to the senate this session and his followers had predicted approval.
But Senator Lewis, Democratic whip who is a strong opponent of the treaty, said Premier Bennett would not know until May whether he would have a majority in parliament and since the treaty is an issue in Canada it was likely a new pact would not be negotiated at this time.

"The premier," he said, "would not want to negotiate something in advance of the elections that might antagonize some sections of Canada. The possibilities are the government will wait."
A majority of the senate approved the pact last session, but the vote was far below the required two-thirds.

Tested Recipes

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE

VEAL for Company (Dinner Serving Eight.)
Tomato Juice Cocktail
Sautéed Potatoes

Stuffed Roast Veal Shoulder
Browned Potatoes
Escalloped Onions
Bread Raspberry Jam
Baked Apple Sauce
Cracked Nuts Raisins
Coffee

Stuffed Roast Veal Shoulder
Veal shoulder
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon paprika
1 cup water

Have bone removed from veal shoulder so a pocket is formed in which to place stuffing. Add stuffing and fit into baking pan. Sprinkle with flour, salt and paprika. Bake 15 minutes in hot oven in uncovered pan. Add water and lid. Lower fire and bake about 2 1-3 hours or until veal is very tender when tested with long handled fork. Baste frequently.

Stuffing
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons onion
1 tablespoon chopped celery
1 tablespoon parsley
3 cups soft bread crumbs
1 egg
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon pepper
Melt butter and brown onion and celery. Mixing with fork, add rest of ingredients. Mix lightly and stuff veal.

Baked Apple Sauce
4 cups sliced apples
1 cup sugar
1 cup water
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Mix ingredients. Bake 45 minutes in covered pan in moderate oven. Stir frequently.

Add coconut to apples to be baked and you will have a "little different" flavor. Remember to add lemon juice to all baked fruits and the flavor will be improved.

For a change add 1-2 cup chopped dates and nuts to your regular waffle recipe. This will make a good dessert to blend with hot coffee.

Deny Separation of Former Royal Family of Spain

Rome, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A spokesman for former King Alfonso of Spain today denied Parisian reports that a legal separation of Alfonso and his wife, the former Queen Victoria, was impending. Alfonso is spending the winter here.

The spokesman, a Spanish nobleman close to the former King, said he did not know whether Victoria, who has been living in London, would come here for the marriage of the Infanta Beatriz to Prince Alessandro Torlonia next Monday.

The wedding plans, however, have been made with the expectation that the former queen would be present.

The former sovereigns have lived apart for some time and there have been rumors that their marriage would be annulled or that they would be legally separated. Well-informed sources in the Vatican, however, recently denied that any formal severance of their bonds would take place.

Marie Returns to Rumania in Effort to Erase "Scandal"

Bucharest, Rumania, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Rumanian peasants rejoiced today at Queen Mother Marie's return to Rumania, aware that she is pursuing a skillful campaign to erase a "scandal" touching the royal house.

Confidence was expressed in many quarters that the Dowager Queen would succeed in inducing her son, King Carol, to jilt Mme. Magda Lupescu, Carol's red-haired companion, and remarry Princess Helen, from whom he is divorced.

The Queen Mother's popularity was increased by her voluntary return from Yugoslavia, where she had been living in almost complete seclusion with her daughter, Queen Marie, widowed by the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia.

Diplomatic circles believe Marie "swallowed her pride" to return to the capital, where Mme. Lupescu has attained the station of "uncrowned queen."

In recent weeks Mme. Lupescu has become active socially, and is more conspicuous in Rumanian life than ever. Marie has never consented to meet her.

Beach Togs Worn In South Are Easy to Warm Up To SUB-TROPICAL SUN MAKES THEM HEAVY ENOUGH FOR COMFORT

Old-fashioned plaid gingham is used to make this new and flattering bathing suit that includes shorts and brassiere, fastened together with suspender straps. It adorns Dorothy Perkins of New York at the Surf Club in Miami Beach, Fla.

Bramer-Rasmussen Wedding Solemnized On New Year's Eve

A pretty wedding ceremony was solemnized at 5:30 New Year's eve at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Bramer of Ohio, when their youngest daughter, Lilah Dorothy, became the bride of Andrew E. Rasmussen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rasmussen of LaMouille.

The Rev. P. B. Chenault, pastor of the LaSalle Baptist church, officiated. The double ring ceremony was used.

Mrs. Chenault played the Wedding March from Lohengrin and Ralph Snow of LaSalle sang "I Love You Truly," and "Oh, Promise Me." Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Snow, brother-in-law and sister of the bride, were the attendants.

The bride was attired in a lovely gown of white satin and lace. She wore a coronet of pearls and orange shower bouquet of white Killarney roses and narcissus.

The matron of honor was attired in a gown of pastel green crepe with accessories to match and carried an arm bouquet of pink Briarcliff roses and baby breath.

The home was prettily decorated in white, pink and green, with white wedding bells.

Following the ceremony a two-course wedding dinner was served to the immediate relatives.

The bride and groom were graduates of the Ohio high school of the same class. The bride was formerly employed in LaSalle but has been with her parents the past year. The groom is engaged in farming and he and his bride will make their home on a farm near LaMouille.

The young couple left late in the evening for a honeymoon trip to Chicago.

The many friends in the community extend best wishes to the happy couple.

Meeting of Hillside Community Club on Friday Evening

The Hillside Community Club were entertained Friday evening at the home of Joe Gilbert and sisters Misses Eunice and Lucy Gilbert, north of Franklin Grove, with a large attendance. Several visitors were also present.

The president called the meeting to order, all giving the Gilbert family a rising vote of thanks for entertaining the club.

The entertaining committee consisted of Mrs. Bill Fisher, Mrs. Leo Withney and Mrs. Owen Morris. The program included roll call, all answering with a New Year's Resolution. Songs, readings, recitations and a play provided the entertainment.

The community paper was written and read by Mrs. Alfred Hintzelman, which was very interesting. Program closed by all singing, "God Be With you 'Till We Meet Again."

Refreshments of sandwiches, pickles, scalloped potatoes, cake and coffee were served. All departed for their homes having enjoyed the evening.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Mary Sanders and family, Feb. 1st.

RELIEF FIGURES REVEAL DIRE SITUATION
One useful thing the depression-born relief problem is doing for us. It is acting as a microscope through which we can get a new look at some of the phases of American life which we never bothered to examine very carefully before.

We talk about unemployment, about the need to get people back to work, about the "American standard of living" which must be preserved; and all the while, tucked away in the relief statistics, are figures which give us a dismaying new view of the way a large percentage of our people have to live.

These statistics were studied by C. Hartley Grattan in a recent issue of Scribner's Magazine.

Mr. Grattan takes his figures from the FERA lists, which show that in September 1934, some 18,300,000 persons were receiving relief. Slightly less than two-thirds of these people were city folk; the rest were from the farms or the small towns.

Then, by analyzing the figures, he makes a further discovery—that most of the people on relief are precisely those people who, when employed, receive incomes so low that they cannot build up a nest egg for hard times.

For instance: Unskilled and semi-skilled urban laborers make up only 41 per cent of our general urban population; but they compose 63 per cent of our urban relief group. Skilled workers, composing 17 per cent of our population, make up 19 per cent of the relief group.

On the other hand, proprietary, professional, and clerical workers, composing about 41 per cent of the urban population, contribute only 18 per cent of the relief group.

It is the same way with rural workers. The share-croppers, the tenant farmers, the men who have been struggling with marginal or sub-marginal land, never prosperous even in good times—these are the men who make up the bulk of the relief group in the rural regions.

In city and country alike, these people are the ones who never, even in boom times, touch our famous "American standard of living." They live in those homes at which our slum clearance plans are aimed.

They never get adequate medical attention, diet, or clothing; they never can build up bank accounts big enough to carry them very long when trouble comes.

Studying the relief figures makes us realize, as we did not realize before, how many of these people there are. Year after year we have to carry this load of poverty. In hard times it makes the relief list almost unsurmountably expensive; in good times it limits our markets and gives us all the social problems which are born of poverty.

We can not be complacent about any "recovery" that does not permanently raise the status of these people in the lowest income brackets.

TO AVOID PARTIALITY
Pennsylvania, one of our greatest industrial states, has never been exactly famous for its industrial peace.
Pennsylvania strikes have a way of being somewhat violent; a contributing factor unquestionably is the state law which permits corporations to pay the salaries of deputy sheriffs sworn in to preserve order and protect property in time of strike.

Now it is announced that the United Mine Workers will petition the state legislature to wipe that law off the books; and such a step should do much to ease the tension in future strikes.

Law officers who are paid by one of the two parties to a dispute cannot be impartial. The mere fact that they are paid by the company inevitably exacerbates bitterness and creates hatred.

Pennsylvania would be well advised to repeal the law and make all peace officers what they are supposed to be—non-partisan servants of the state, free of all obligations to either party in any industrial struggle.

CAN U. S. BE TAXED?
An interesting little problem seems to have arisen in Colorado, where the federal government has taken over ownership and operation of the Moffat railroad to protect some $10,500,000 in loans.

The Colorado state tax commission has announced that it will tax Uncle Sam for this property precisely as it taxed the private owners in former days. If Uncle Sam declines to pay, lawsuits will be filed to test the statutes which provide tax exemption for government property.

The growth of government ownership and operation of various agencies is bound to make this problem acute before long. If Uncle Sam is going to run electric plants, railroads, and the like, can the states tax him?

If not, how are they going to replace the income formerly derived from taxation of those agencies when they were privately owned and operated?

If in the future anybody strikes at the unity of Yugo-Slavia, Czechoslovakia and Rumania, catastrophe will surely come.—Dr. Eduard Benes, Czechoslovakian foreign minister.

The really simple and yet vitally important things are the details. The rest is a matter of combination.— Henry Ford.

REPORT ON LEE COUNTY SCHOOLS IS OF INTEREST

Included in Bulletin Issued by Supt. Public Instruction Blair

The Educational Press Bulletin for January, issued from the office of Francis G. Blair, superintendent of public instruction, contains interesting facts concerning teachers in one room schools throughout Illinois. The table which deals with each county separately represents a chapter in the school history of Illinois during the depression period that will speak well for the heroic teachers who have increased their efficiency in spite of the fact that their salaries have been reduced out of all proportion to the necessities of the case.

The table shows that qualifications of the teachers of one room schools and their classification according to salaries for the school years ended June 30, 1932, 1933 and 1934.

Under the N. R. A. codes, the commonest kinds of laborers are supposed to receive at least $728 a year, but most of the school board of our one room school districts seem to think that the services of 8,765 of the 10,101 teachers reported in this table are worth less than $700, the Bulletin states. It needs to be said in this connection that this low estimate of the teachers' value to the community is not limited to these 8,765 school districts, because a study of salaries of teachers in districts with two or more teachers shows that there are many teachers in those districts receiving less than $700 per year.

Lee County report
In Lee county there were 136 teachers reported in 1932, 137 in 1933 and 133 in 1934. Under the heading of qualifications, years training after the four year high school course there were 37 with no other training than the latter in 1932; ten in 1933 and nine last year.
Those with one year of special training were 66 in 1932, 64 in 1933 and 68 last year. The number with two years training in 1933 were 24; in 1933, 34 and 44 last year. Those with three years training in 1933, totalled three in 1932 and 1933 and five last year. Teachers with four or more years of training in the county in 1932 totalled four; in 1933, six, and seven last year.

No teacher in Lee county received less than $400 in salary in 1932, one received this figure in 1933 and six last year. Teachers receiving between $400 and $500 for the three years totalled, one in 1932, 14 in 1933 and 59 last year. The number receiving between $500 and $600 last year are given as seven in 1932, 19 in 1933 and 50 last year. Teachers receiving between $600 and $700 salary in 1932 were 32 in number, 68 in 1933 and 20 last year. Salaries between $700 and $800 paid
Lee county teachers in 1932 totalled 47; in 1933, 21, and last year, five.

The number of teachers receiving from $800 to $900 in 1932 totalled 26; in 1933, there were nine and last year this figure fell to two only. In 1932 there were 16 Lee county teachers receiving salaries amounting from $900 to $1,000, which fell to five in 1933 and last year there were none. Seven teachers received a salary of $1,000 or more in 1932 and for 1933 and last year there were none in this classification.

A study of the state totals reveals the following interesting facts as to the increase in efficiency during the worst two years so far in the depression:

In 1932, 29.56% of the teachers had no training above the high school, while in 1934 only 9.38% were in that class. In 1932, 44.77% had one year's training above the high school, 19.42% had two years,

The Quintuplets Take Their Ease in 'The Rat's Nest'

The Dionne quintuplets having outgrown their cribs, something had to be done about it. So a carpenter built the community crib shown here, in which for several hours each day the famed babies kick their heels in artificial sunlight and generally take their ease. Nurses and other attendants in the quintuplets' hospital at Corbell, Ont., call it "The Rat's Nest."

3.12% had three years and 3.13% had four or more years of such training; while in 1934, 49.44% had one year's training above the high school, 29.41% had two years, 5.02% had three years and 6.25% had four or more years of such training.

Now as to salaries we find the reverse holds true. For instance, in 1932 only 18% received less than $400 annual salary, 2.38% $400 to $500, 7.52% $500 to $600, 25.91%
$600 to $700, 20.28% $700 to $800,
22.47% $800 to $900, 10.50% $900
to $1,000 and 10.76% $1,000 or more; while in 1934 6.46% received less than $400, 31.64% $400 to $500, 26.09%
$500 to $600, 22.58% $600 to $700,
6.37% $700 to $800, 3.34% $800 to $900, 1.76% $900 to $1,000 and 1.76%
$1,000 or more.

DAILY HEALTH

FLAT-FOOT—1.

The shape of the foot is subject to as many variations as the shapes of differing individuals. The foot may be long, short, fat, thin, broad, narrow, or any combination of these. Hence there is no ideal foot, so to say, nor any standard shape against which we may measure the variants.

The average person thinks of flat-foot in terms of the lowering or absence of the curve of the long arch of the foot. For this reason, too, the flattened foot is said to have a fallen arch. In some instances this description is fitting; in others it is defective. For some normal feet are so built that they naturally have only a very low arch.

A distinguishing mark of the truly "flat-foot" is its position in relation to the body. The flat foot, instead of pointing forward, tends to be turned outward, so that as the individual walks he rolls himself along on the inner margin of the foot, instead of lifting his heel off the ground and giving himself a push, so to say, on his toes.

The causes of flat-foot are numerous. First, there is the element of constitution. The foot of the newborn babe is very flexible and can hardly be said to have any particular arching. As the child grows up, it tends to assume one of two foot develops a corresponding shape.

The plump infant, predisposed to grow into a comparatively short and muscular type of individual, a t begins to walk usually develops a strong and markedly arched foot.

The so-called athletic infant, destined to grow into the lean and lanky type of individual, is very frequently found to develop a comparatively low-arched foot.

Adults may acquire flat-foot because of muscular weakness due to general illness, or because of prolonged or habitual fatigue, the result of exacting or unaccustomed work.

Flat-foot also is at times the result of what is called a short tendon Achilles, the heel tendon.

Tomorrow: Flat-foot, II.

Samuel Insull Faces Embezzlement Charge
in Cook Co. Jan. 28

Chicago, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The trial of Samuel Insull on a charge of embezzling $66,000 from the Middle West Utilities Company was set for January 28 by Judge Cornelius J.
Harrington in the criminal court Monday.

Insull, who last November was freed of a federal charge of using the mails to defraud in connection with the collapse of his two billion dollar utilities empire, will be tried in the state court on a charge of using the company's money to bolster a brokerage account of his brother, Martin.

Martin Insull was indicted on the same charge, but under the terms of his extradition from Canada the state is not permitted to prosecute him. Martin a few weeks ago was acquitted in the embezzlement case for which he was extradited.

Illinois' Oldest Woman, 102, Dead

Hutsonville, Ill., Jan. 8.—(AP)—
Mrs. Deborah Canada, 102 years old, daughter of a veteran of the war of 1812 and said to be the oldest woman in Illinois, died at her home here Monday from injuries received in a fall on Friday.

The scene of Mrs. Canada's death was the log home erected by her husband, William, 84 years old when the couple settled here. Her father was Thomas Spencer who received a land grant near Terre Haute, Ind., for his participation in the war of 1812.

PLEBISCITE IS BEGUN IN SAAR:
COUNT IN WEEK

Only Minor Disorders Reported as Campaign Wound Up

Saarbruecken, Saar Basin Territory, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Voting began Monday in the history-making Saar plebiscite, ordered 15 years ago at Versailles.

Since they must work on election day, five thousand public employes cast their ballots in a "dress rehearsal" of the mass voting next Sunday.

In effect, it was a vote for or against Adolf Hitler, just an army corporal when the powers which won the World War decreed that the Saar, after 15 years of supervision by the League of Nations, should decide whether to return to German, unite with France or remain under the league's guidance.

Most observers freely predict a reunion with the Reich.

Only Minor Disorders
Only minor disturbances were reported in yesterday's huge wind-up mass meetings. This was interpreted as a brilliant victory for the plebiscite commission, which permitted the rival factions to demonstrate without serious clashes.

For this reason the possibility of a postponement of the vote, considered Saturday because of fears of Sunday disorders, presumably was abandoned.

Polling places nevertheless were heavily guarded. Efforts to break through the lines to see the inner mechanism of the plebiscite were fruitless.

The first ballots will be guarded in safes and mixed with final votes for counting one week from today.
Thus the vote gave no indication of which way the wind is blowing, although a majority of the public servants are regarded as Nazis.

Democrats Quit In Debt: Opponents Even

Washington, Jan. 8.—(AP)— Reports filed with the clerk of the House disclosed that the Democratic National Committee closed its 1934 books $522,792 in debt while the Republican committee was $184 "to the good" as the year ended.

The Democratic committee reported receipts of $367,497 during the year and disbursements of $91,007. While this left a surplus of $6,490, unpaid obligations amounted to $529,282.

The Republican committee showed it took in $416,695 during 1934.
Contributions amounting to $104-625 in the last quarter of the year enabled the committee to overcome a deficit of $36,468 on October 30.

PENNANT RACE EXPECTED TO BE TIGHTER

Indians, Red Sox and Athletics Will Be Stronger

NOTE: This is another of an exclusive series written for The Associated Press by national sports leaders and dealing with 1935 prospects.

By WILL HARRIDGE

President, American League
Chicago, Jan. 8 —(AP)—They say even a weather man hits it right in his predictions now and then. I certainly sympathize with him. For three years I predicted a close race in the American League and I finally made good in 1934 when Cleveland, New York and Detroit took turns in leading, with Detroit finally clinching the pennant six days before the campaign came to a close.

Having had American League clubs help me out in my forecast of a year ago, I see no reason for not predicting at this time that we will have an even more spirited contest for the championship in 1935.

Detroit may experience more difficulty in capturing the flag than it did in 1934. The Tigers won their laurels because of the catching and magnetism of Manager Coghane and the tem's immunity from injuries. They played heads-up baseball from start to finish and Coghane expects them to repeat.

Race Will Be Closer
Managers of teams who were runners-up to Detroit claim the Tigers cannot expect to be as free from accidents again. If they are correct in such statements, our race is sure to be closer. New York will be a strong contender again. Possibly, if Combs and Dickey had not been injured last season, the battle would not have been decided until the very last day. No club can afford to lose such a star as Combs for half a season and such a great catcher as Dickey for last month of the campaign.

While it may be bromide to say that pitching is 70 or 80 per cent of a club's efficiency, it nevertheless has been shown to be true on numerous occasions. New York counted on Allen and Van Atta as half of its pitching "Big Four" in 1934. Neither was able to help except at brief periods. If they come back in 1935, the Yankees certainly will be more dangerous.

Cleveland has an excellent chance of improving its standing. The Indians are especially strong on the mound and at the bat. Even more batting strength has been added by the acquisition of outfielder Bruce Campbell and infielder Louis Berger. The latter is said to be one of the greatest infield prospects that has come into the league in many years.

Boston, with a crippled pitching staff and an infield that was weak in spots, still was able to finish fourth in 1934. It should make a stronger bid for the pennant next season with the chance that Grove, Pipgras and Walberg will be able to take regular turns in the box, and with Joe Cronin, a most capable young manager and an exceptionally fine shortstop, piloting the Red Sox. There is no doubt

Knacks Struggle To Maintain An Inviolable Mark

Knacks Leaders can maintain an inviolable first round basketball record this evening if they vanquish the improving Ashton quint. In another contest on the high school floor, the Dixon State Hospital team meets the Beiers Loafers. The first game begins at 7:15 P. M.

Ashton's record is not imposing but the Knacks have been improving with every game, despite the fact they have not yet reached full strength. Last week they turned in the prize upset of the league season by trouncing the Beiers Bakery to break into the win column for the first time. The Knacks had a difficult time disposing of the State Hospital in the first game.

In the other game tonight, Beiers meet the flashing Red and Yellow team, the latter thirsting for its first win. The I. N. U. will referee the games. The tussles conclude the first round.

Boston will have a much better balanced team than in 1934.

A's Are Dark Horses
Philadelphia appears to be the dark horse. At the outset of last season, it lacked the pitching, but during the last month Connie Mack had his young hurlers working very smoothly and winning many splendidly pitched contests. In fact, the youthful pitchers demonstrated that with a season's experience behind them, they are going to keep the Athletics well up in the race from the start. Mack has announced he will use Jimmie Fox, his most powerful batsman, as a catcher. This move will be watched with great interest.

Rogers Hornsby worked wonders in his first full campaign at St. Louis. He will have a stronger team in 1935, one that should win more games. The same may be said of Washington and Chicago, both of which were riddled by accidents throughout the 1934 battle and never able to present their full strength.

Chicago has done some wise weeding out and added some excellent prospects, while Washington has improved its batting. Stanley Harris is back as manager at Washington where he won two pennants and has some capable new material to try out. Jimmy Dykes, at Chicago, has had the benefit of a year's experience as manager, and I count on him to place a winning team on the field.

SARAZEN CLAIMS PRO GOLF GAINS ARE IN PACIFIC

South Seas Domains Offer More Cash in Tourneys

Los Angeles, Jan. 8 —(AP)—Horace Greeley was a golfer but Gene Sarazen thinks the editor had the right idea when he advised young men to "go west."

The stout-hearted professional thinks he and his fellow pros will have to look to Hawaii, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, the Fiji Islands and other bright spots in the Pacific, rather than to Europe, as they seek new worlds to conquer.

"Professionals from the United States have spent thousands of dollars in trips to Europe without bringing any of it back," said Gene. "Hagen has spent more than $50,000 and I have gone into the old pocketbook for more than $20,000 in trips to Europe without a chance to break even. It's different when you book passage on the Pacific instead of the Atlantic. True, it's a longer voyage but there's more cash at the end."

A six man team from the professional golfers association of America and several other stars, including Sarazen, traveling without portfolio, have returned from a highly successful tour of Australia.

"We were received with tremendous enthusiasm," said Gene. "In spite of the fact that golf is a winter game down there and most of the courses are closed in summer, great crowds out and showed keen appreciation of the visitor's efforts."

ARMOUR WINS MIAMI GOLF TOURNAMENT

Puts Together Scores of 66, 73, 70, 72 In 3 Days

Miami, Fla., Jan. 8 —(AP)—With youth trying in vain to be served, the silver-haired veteran, Tommy Armour of Chicago, stroked his way to victory and $500 against a field of 172 club swingers in the eleventh annual $2,500 Miami Open golf tournament.

Armour put together rounds of 66, 73, 70 and 72 for a 72-hole total of 281 to win the three-day competition last yesterday for the second time. His previous win over the windswept Miami Springs course was in 1932.

Three strokes behind Armour was another veteran, Little Bobby Cruickshank of Richmond, Va., who profited $400. Bill Melhorn of Louisville and Felix Serafin of Scranton, Pa., tied with 286's for third place, dividing $300.

Arnold Minkley of Cleveland captured amateur honors with 307, and Sam Anderson of Kenosha, Wis., was runner-up with 311.

All-America Cage Action

Poised in mid-air as Norman Cotton, No. 9, Purdue's All-America forward, whips a one-hand shot toward the basket, these Boiler-makers are training hard for defense of their Big Ten basketball title. The other two Lafayette, Ind., hoopsters are Ed Shaver, back guard, center, and Bob Kessler, forward.

PURDUE RAPPED BY ILLINOIS; N. U. IS UPSET

Big Ten Favorites Nurse Headaches Today

Chicago, Jan. 8 —(AP)—Purdue and Northwestern, pre-season choices to battle it out for Big Ten basketball honors, were nursing unexpected headaches today.

Purdue, undefeated in seven previous starts this season, got its headache down at Illinois, where the Illini, who have not lost to the Boiler-makers in Champaign since 1929, rallied to gain a 37 to 36 victory.

Northwestern's painful throbbings were caused by a 16 to 9 defeat by Wisconsin at Madison, Mich., which had hopes of causing trouble in the race, took a 33 to 30 beating at Ann Arbor.

The upsets left Iowa perched at the head of the standing with two victories and no defeats.

Jinx Works Again
Purdue apparently had the Illinois floor jinx licked, running up a 10 point lead with only ten minutes to go. The Illini, however, staged a dazzling rally, taking the lead with less than two minutes left and stalling the remainder time to protect its slender lead. Frank Proschauer led Illinois with 13 points, while Norm Cotton, Purdue's ace who was held under control by Jack Beynon in the first half put on a rally of his own to finish with 10 points.

Northwestern's rangy team, which had not been held to less than 30 points by such teams as Pittsburgh, Butler and Michigan State, beat the Badger's cast-iron defense for only three field goals.

Wisconsin's victory gave it an even break in two starts. Purdue having defeated the Badgers Saturday. Ohio and Illinois also made it a victory and a defeat for the season so far, while Michigan and Northwestern were victims in their opening games of the championship season.

Buckeyes Rally
Ohio State came from behind in the last half to pull up even with Michigan and a pair of field goals by Little Tippy Dye in the overtime gave the Buckeyes their victory.

Iowa packed most of its punch in the opening minutes of the second half to trounce the Maroons.

Wisconsin's victory gave it an even break in two starts. Purdue having defeated the Badgers Saturday. Ohio and Illinois also made it a victory and a defeat for the season so far, while Michigan and Northwestern were victims in their opening games of the championship season.

GARDEN TRIES TO HALT BAER EXHIBITIONS

Insists Hamas, Baer And Lasky Bound By Contracts

New York, Jan. 8 —(AP)—"I'll get my lawyers!"

Jimmy Johnston was shouting that around Madison Square Garden today as Nate Lewis and Jim Mullen, partners of a Chicago fight promoting combine, were browsing around Gotham in quest of opponents for Max Baer for five ten-round exhibitions.

Steve Hamas, Art Lasky and Baer himself are bound under Garden contracts, matchmaker Johnston insists.

"The agreements we have with Baer, Schmeling and Lasky are good all over the world," roared Johnston. "They'll have to do a lot of fighting in the courts before they can go into the ring. I'll get my lawyers."

Joe Louis, the sensational young Detroit Negro heavyweight who along with Hamas, Lasky, Primo Carnera and Max Schmeling, are being sought by Lewis and Mullen for exhibition bouts, is acknowledged by Johnston as having "plenty on the ball."

That's the only thing he and the invading promoters agree on.

Foxs Says Bambino Will Not Play Again

Philadelphia, Jan. 8 —(AP)—Home from the orient, Jimmy Fox, first base slugger, denies that Babe Ruth is scheduled to line up with the Philadelphia Athletics.

The "Bambino" has reached the point now where he doesn't care to play," said Fox, who will be switched to a catching assignment for the Connie Mack-men next season.

"He wants to manage a team," Fox said yesterday, "and I have an idea that if he doesn't hook on as a manager he may stay out of the game. Also, I don't think he could play on account of his weight."

Persistent reports have been heard that Ruth, who toured with Fox and Mack in Japan, had performed so brilliantly he would be taken on as field manager for the Athletics during the 1935 season. All reports have been denied.

HARLOW'S TEAM RECORD PROVES HIS CALIBRE

Harvard Considered Fortunate in Getting Him

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 8 —(AP)—If his past performances have any bearing on his future at Harvard, Dick Harlow's Crimson teams should win an average of six out of eight games every season and go undefeated every five years or so.

A study of the new Harvard coach's record at Penn State, Colgate and Western Maryland revealed that his teams have won 119 out of 168 games, lost 38 and tied 11.

The ideal opponent for a Harlow-coached team appears to be Gettysburg, which has bowed before his players eight times. On the other hand, Pittsburgh should be kept off the schedule, for the Panthers have trounced Harlow's forces every time they met, five times in all.

His 19 teams, representing three different colleges, have piled up a total of 3886 points, an average of 23 a game, and have had 956 points scored against them, less than a touchdown a game.

Five of Harlow's teams have enjoyed undefeated seasons, but only two of them, his 1925 Penn State and his 1929 Western Maryland, escaped ties.

Gave Colgate Unbeaten Team
Harlow gave Colgate its first undefeated eleven in 1925, but Lafayette and Brown held the Red Raiders even. At Western Maryland in 1930 his "Terrors" defeated nine rivals and played a 7-7 tie with Albright. Last season Western Maryland played a scoreless tie with Villanova and then went on to top Albright, Boston College, Catholic U., St. Thomas, West Chester Teachers, Bucknell, Mt. St. Mary's and Georgetown.

Joe McKenney, whose Boston College Eagles have lost to Western Maryland for the last four years, probably knows more about Harlow's tactics than any other coach in this football sector.

"Harlow follows the Warner system strictly," Joe explained, "using a single wing back formation more than the double."

"Harvard is indeed fortunate to acquire a fellow of Harlow's type. He is all that could be asked for in every sense. Always a stickler for detail, Dick's teams will be noted for their knowledge of fundamentals. He will have a different type of material at Harvard than he had at Western Maryland, younger and less experienced. But Dick is the man to make that difference negligible."

HARVARD PAPER KNOCKS CHOICE OF DICK HARLOW

Says He's Associated With Proselyting Colleges

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 8 —(AP)—The Harvard Crimson, undergraduate daily, referred Monday to Dick Harlow of Western Maryland, newly appointed head football coach at Harvard, as one whose connection has always been "with colleges of somewhat shady character in the matter of proselyting."

The Crimson, commenting editorially on the Harlow appointment, said: "Reconciliation of the idealistic speech of William Bingham (director of Harvard athletics) before the coaches' meeting, with the hiring of a football coach whose connection has always been with colleges of somewhat shady character in the matter of proselyting is difficult."

The editorial referred to Bingham's remarks at the recent coaches' meeting in New York, where he condemned subsidizing schoolboys to come to college for football and unduly recruiting in general.

Stillman Valley Scout Troop 82 Sends Leaders

Stillman Valley Troop 82 is the latest to sign up officers for the Junior Officers Boy Scout Training course that will be held in the Dixon armory, Saturday, Jan. 12.

Those registered from Stillman Valley are: John Brown, Senior patrol leader; Arthur Beebe, William Gamber, patrol leaders; Quinten Alfors, Boyd Barrick, A. P. L.; David Alfors, scribe. A press club editor has not yet been chosen.

About 35 boys have been registered from Lee and Ogle county troops for the junior course it was reported this morning.

A very successful meeting was held by Troop 89 Sunday afternoon attended by 13 out of 18 boys enrolled. The group was divided into two patrols, one of which studied signalling and knot-tying at the home of Scoutmaster Kenneth Abbott, and the other going on a short hike to the old quarry near the cement plant where wood for the construction of bridges was cut.

AMUSEMENTS

DENNIS KING'S TRIUMPH

Dennis King has registered one of the most emphatic personal triumphs in the history of the Chicago stage, by his brilliant performance of the wireless operator "Dinner" in Mark Reed's rollicking comedy, "Petticoat Fever," now at the Harris Theatre.

The entire Chicago press without one single exception has acclaimed him as one of the best actors of our time and a comedian of distinctive artistry and personality; he is accredited with youth, virility, exquisite technique and a glorious singing voice, that he uses to discriminating advantage when the occasion occurs.

Dennis King has at many times disclosed to Chicago patrons the magnificent histrionic endowment bequeathed him, but never has he given a characterization so splendidly etched and so dynamic in hilarity and infectious comedy as this handsome, young Canadian wireless operator who unintentionally has to be the host to a group of marooned visitors in his isolated dwelling in Labrador.

The rather intriguing title of "Petticoat Fever" is given to the composition; but after going over the story, these two simple words convey a world of meaning and aptly convey the substance of the motif.

It appears that King is stationed at an isolated spot in Labrador, where he has only an Eskimo servant as a companion in his dwelling. His nearest neighbor is an Episcopalian missionary 90 miles away. He has not seen a white woman in almost two years and he is suffering from—as he says—"Petticoat Fever."

A few minutes after the play commences a typical Arctic storm blows a passenger aeroplane off its course, en route to Ottawa, where an attractive young woman and a sedate Canadian member of Parliament seek shelter in this picturequely furnished wireless station. Shortly afterwards the arrival of the Government supply boat, also driven to safety from the storm, increases the population of the station to congested proportions and affords sufficient complications to enable Mark Reed to construct a splendidly conceived and cleverly written story. Needless to state that the progress of the "Fever" is checked by the advent of European femininity.

Richard Aldrich and Alfred de Lague, Jr. have given him an exceptionally capable company of players, including Doris Dalton, Ona Munson, Jay Fassett, Joaquin Southern, Leo Curley, Robert Bentley, Goo Chong, Nave Kond, Gale Kamato and others. The setting, by Robert Barnhart, is said to be especially effective.

DISBURSEMENT FOR HOME LOANS $166,000,000

Corporation Making Loans From HOLC Funds Yet

The twenty million dollars paid out by the Illinois Agency of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation during December brought the total disbursement for the state to more than $166,000,000, Henry G. Zander, Jr., state manager, disclosed today.

He attached much significance to the figure of $209 loans which were paid out during the last month of the year, because it indicates that the corporation is still making loans from the remaining funds of the HOLC appropriation. Although the total is not as great as in some previous months, it is, nevertheless, a substantial number at this stage of the corporation's progress.

Only those applications which had reached the legal department on November 15th are now receiving loans. Not even two thousand such cases are still in the hands of closing attorneys in the seven downstate districts. These will receive final disposition as speedily as possible.

In all, the HOLC paid out a total of 42,288 loans in Illinois before the close of the year. Including the $20,013,000 resulting from the December operations, this makes approximately $166,312,000 loaned by the corporation for refinancing mortgages in Illinois. The average amount of a loan in the state is $3842.

Mr. Zander expressed his satisfaction over the status of the corporation at the close of the year by saying:

"The HOLC is now nearing completion of its task as prescribed by the Home Owners' Loan Act. We have finished the major portion of our work and this is reflected in many fields of business, especially in real estate. The number of foreclosures has been greatly reduced. Prospects for home owners and mortgage holders are much more encouraging than they were a year ago. The greater availability of mortgage money can be directly attributed to the work of the HOLC. Then, too, almost every loan made carries with it indirect benefits for others not immediately connected with the transactions. Many recipients of the government bonds have in turn paid off mortgages on their homes. Others have sold the bonds and paid delinquent bills and taxes, while, on the other hand, numerous banks are holding the bonds in their investment portfolios which hitherto contained defaulted mortgages.

"As a result, it is my belief that both the private real estate and lending firms may look forward to a very active year in 1935. Now that the government has cleared the field of the most distressed cases and shown the way toward sound long term amortization of real estate loans, there is ample encouragement for private enterprise to take over the burden carried by the HOLC in the past year."

Mr. Zander also stated that collections on HOLC loans now being made at the Regional office, showed only a small per cent of delinquency. The corporation will not show undue leniency toward borrowers who deliberately default in their interest or principal payments, according to John H. Fahey, chairman of the board of directors of the HOLC. He said that such borrowers run the risk of losing their properties and that the corporation is already proceeding vigorously against mortgagors who are clearly shown to be able to pay their indebtedness, but who have deliberately attempted to evade their responsibilities.

The Rockford district passed the thousand loan mark by paying out 126 loans during the month, almost as many as during November. In all, 1019 HOLC loans have been made in the district.

Report Morrow's Butler to Marry Betty Gow, Nurse

New York, Jan. 8 —(AP)—The New York Post, in a special dispatch from Flemington, N. J. Monday said that Septimus Banks, butler at the Morrow estate at Englewood, N. J., answered the telephone this morning and heard this question:

"Have you fixed a date for your wedding to Betty Gow?"

"I beg your pardon?" said Banks.

"The question was repeated."

"I've never heard of it," Banks replied with a chilling infection.

"But," the telephone questioner persisted, "a high state official has said that you and Miss Gow would be married soon."

"I have no comment, thank you, sir," Banks said, ending the conversation.

The Post said it learned several weeks ago that Miss Gow and Banks were engaged to marry.

CHIEF ATTORNEY FOR HAUPTMANN PLANS STRATEGY

To Divide Defense in Three Parts; Hopes to Prove Alibi

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 8. —(AP)—Edward J. Reilly, chief of defense for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, said today he would attempt to connect several state witnesses with the slaying of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby.

"I have divided the defense into three parts," Reilly said. "First I shall establish an alibi for Hauptmann. The second part will concern the handwriting on the ransom notes."

"The third will have to do with connecting those who have testified already and who will testify, with the theft of the Lindbergh baby."

Reilly set as his goal the prosecution of the "real kidnappers" of the Lindbergh baby.

He reaffirmed his decision to name openly the "four persons, two men and two women, guilty of the crime." He said Hauptmann had no part either in the murder or in the extortion of Lindbergh's $500,000 ransom, for which Hauptmann has been indicted in the Bronx.

The corrupt defense counsel, whose several chins have been thrust forward at a numerous angle during the trial, granted to Mrs. Lindbergh alone immunity from cross-examination.

Lenient With Lindy

With Colonel Lindbergh he is regarded as having been lenient, not even challenging the aviator's identification of Hauptmann's as the voice he heard during payment of the ransom.

Of the remaining seven witnesses who have testified, Betty Gowts testimony attracted the most attention. For more than 90 minutes, Reilly questioned the former nurse who came from Scotland to testify for the state.

He inquired into her association with Henry "Red" Johnson, her friend who was once questioned in the case and who is now in Norway. He asked about Violet Sharpe, the maid if the Morrow estate who committed suicide shortly before being arrested by state police for the fourth time.

Throughout the testimony of several witnesses the question "where was Whiteley on the night of the kidnapping?" has been propounded by Reilly. Oliver Whiteley, the Lindbergh butler, died in April, 1932.

Mrs. Elsie Whiteley, the butler's widow, spiritedly denied that her husband had associations with Violet Sharpe. She was forced to recall the whereabouts of her husband during the evening and night of the kidnapping, March 1, 1932.

CONGRESSMAN IS TAKING HAND IN
MEX. SITUATION

Will Ask That United States Withdraw Its Recognition

Washington, Jan. 8. —(AP)—Controversy over religion and education in Mexico registered a new reverberation here Monday with Rep. Higgins (Dem.-Mass.) asserting he would offer Congress a resolution demanding that the United States withdraw recognition from Mexico and remove Ambassador Joseph Daniels from the diplomatic corps.

Previously, Rep. Higgins had written President Roosevelt asking that a protest be sent to Mexico against the closing of Catholic schools and the expulsion of priests. Ambassador Daniels, the legislator contended today, should be removed because "he was cognizant of what was happening yet made no protest."

Replying to the letter, Secretary of State Hull said:

"Notwithstanding the well settled policies and views respecting religious worship and practices that obtain in this country, I know you understand that other nations are recognized as being entitled to regulate for themselves their internal religious conditions in such manner as they may deem proper and that, accordingly, it is not within the province of this government to intervene in the situation in Mexico to which you refer."

"The procedure you suggest would be tantamount to an effort to determine the course to be taken by another nation, and would almost certainly provoke such resentment as to defeat the purpose which you wish to achieve."

Daniels has been criticized by several Catholic groups for a speech some months ago in which he quoted General Putnam Elias Calles on the subject of education. Catholic periodicals asserted Daniels gave "comfort to the enemies of religion in Mexico" by publicly endorsing a campaign of Socialistic education.

TO RUN AGAIN IN '36

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8. —(AP)—John C. Martin of Salem, who retired this month as state treasurer, has announced that he expects to be a candidate for the same job in the 1936 Democratic primary.

Martin made the announcement at a banquet given in his honor by employees of his office. The treasurer's term is for two years and the constitution forbids him of succeeding himself. As soon as his treasurer's term ends, Governor Horner has announced, will be appointed Chairman of the State Tax Commission.

WOMEN OF OBERAMMERGAU

The women of Oberammergau wear long, full, red, black or multi-colored skirts and bodices, with kerchiefs or embroidered scarves around their necks, crossed in front. On their heads are found wide brimmed, shallow-crowned hats. The men wear short jackets, knee breeches and footless stockings with hob-nailed shoes. Both men and women wear the "Gemselpinsel" perched on their hats. "Gemselpinsel" is the tuft from the breast of a chamois buck that inhabits the nearby mountains.

Samuel Insull is Cashing in on His Flight to Europe

Samuel Insull is cashing in on his odyssey.

He is not accomplishing this feat in American dollars however. A quarter page advertisement in the Yorkshire England Evening Post explains everything.

Beneath a large caption which states "Chased Across the World. Now I Can Speak" is the picture of the one-time utility magnate and below this a block of copy reads, "My Life" by Samuel Insull, which is being published in the Sunday Chronicle exclusively as part of a contest in which prizes as high as $500 pounds are being offered.

In the first installment of his memoirs Insull begins the story of his life with the sentence, "Thirty shillings a week in a London office. He relates the story of his industrious labor night and day to become the secretary of Thomas Edison, and describes the experiences which led to the creation of the telephone.

STEAMROLLER IS BEING PREPARED FOR ROOSEVELT

Chief Executive's Legis- lative Program to Be Shoved Through

Washington, Jan. 8. —(AP)—As Congress went to work today on the $8,520,000,000 budget President Roosevelt has submitted, Democratic leaders predicted his $4,000,000,000 plan to swing from the debt to jobs would go through swiftly and split stirrings of criticism in two sectors.

There was still some talk today, among some Democrats as well as Republicans, that Congress should choose the specific projects on which the money will be spent instead of giving it to the President in a lump sum to allot as he sees fit.

There also were expressions of belief from western progressives that $4,000,000,000 will not be enough and that "wages prevailing in industry should be paid to relief workers instead of the President's plan to pay less.

Steamroller Ready

But many Democrats expressed approval of the plan and with that the party's majorities so huge, even the bitterest opponents of the lump idea agreed privately that it would go through without major change.

Some routine tasks delayed until Thursday the initial consideration in House of the thing Roosevelt wants for this is the $800,000,000 for immediate relief during the dole-to-jobs transition.

Leaders were seeking to get the relief and works proposals out of the way "before the pressure starts." Already some legislators are receiving protests about the plan to return 1,500,000 "unemployables" to the care of the states.

Reaction to the budget ranged from the remark of Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, that it revealed "a gratifying situation" to a comment of Rep. Snell, Republican floor leader in the House, who said: "It looks like we'll have a lot of money by and by."

See Veiled Threat

There was some cloak-room talk today about one statement in the President's message that escaped particular attention yesterday. He said "I do not consider it advisable at this time to propose any new or additional taxes for the fiscal year 1936."

Some who preferred not to be quoted by name pointed to that today as a thinly-veiled hint that if Congress passed the $2,100,000,000 bonus, the President would ask new taxes.

They found additional weight for that belief in a speech last night by Speaker Byrnes. He said that "unless some exceptional and unforeseen burden develops I don't look for any substantial change" in taxes.

Mooney Case as Argued in United States High Court

Washington, Jan. 8. —(AP)—Reasons advanced by California why Thomas J. Mooney should not be released from a life sentence in San Quentin penitentiary were presented formally to the Supreme Court Monday, but it deferred a decision until next Monday on whether it would review the celebrated case.

Mooney was convicted of complicity in the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day parade bombing. He has waged an 18-year campaign for freedom.

In asking the court for a review, Mooney contended he was convicted on perjured evidence.

U. S. Webb, California Attorney General, replied that under state law the case could not be reopened and that relief could be obtained only through a pardon by the governor or through amendment of the laws by the legislature.

Frank F. Merriam, the governor, has the case under consideration. Four governors have refused a pardon.

I. C. C. OVERRULED

Washington, Jan. 8. —(AP)—An Interstate Commerce Commission order requiring all railroads traveling across a state line to install power reverse gears on locomotives was overruled Monday by the supreme court.

By the use of steam apparatus railroad men contended trains could be stopped quickly or moved backward. The community collected heavily—in tolls and high prices—from the pilgrims who came to visit the shrine—Collier's Weekly.

HORNER MESSAGE ONE OF LONGEST EVER SUBMITTED

Financing of Relief in State Biggest Issue for Legislature

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8. —(AP)—Another two-year cycle in the Illinois government will start tomorrow with Governor Horner's announcement of the Democratic administration's position on the full budget of depression issues confronting the regular session of the 59th general assembly.

When the legislature convenes, the Horner administration will begin its second biennium with greater control over the state government.

As law-makers started to congregate in the capital, major attention centered on the governor's personal appearance before the opening session tomorrow afternoon to read a message reported to be one of the longest ever submitted.

But what the governor will recommend in the way of legislation was known only to the inner circle at the State House. Horner refused to comment on relief and other major issues before his message is made public.

Relief Big Problem

Unemployment relief, now being financed entirely from Washington, was agreed by all to be the biggest question with which the legislative and executive branches must struggle before sine die adjournment in late June.

Federal officials insist that Illinois contribute $36,000,000 toward relief this year. There is a surplus of approximately $10,000,000 in the state treasury, due to the sales tax. During recent weeks the governor has indicated that the surplus might be immediately appropriated toward relief and that supplemental taxes will be necessary for the rest.

Nothing else is known about the administration's plans.

Thousand Bills Ready

While both parties keep an eye on the 1936 elections, the introduction of more than a thousand bills will start soon after the governor's message is read.

One of the prospects was that debate and deadlocks might cause fewer delays with the Republican minorities reduced in both houses as a result of the 1934 Democratic landslide.

The list of issues is large. Headed by relief financing and administration, it includes state aid to schools, governmental economy, taxation and revenue reform, the appropriations, crime suppression, revision of the criminal and insurance codes, home rule for municipalities, reapportionment, truck and bus regulation, unemployment insurance and old age pensions, liquor control, governmental consolidation, new deal cooperation, auto drivers' licenses and constitutional changes.

CHURCH-STATE CONFLICT HAS FLARED ANEW

Mexican Situation is Growing Grave as Temper Mount

Mexico, D. F., Jan. 8. —(AP)—Mexico's bitter church-state conflict grew graver today after five persons were shot during a demonstration against the radical red shirt organization and the church openly defied the government's Socialistic education program.

A crowd estimated at 1,500, most of them students, attacked the headquarters of the red shirts youths' group, sworn enemies of the church and five fell before the demonstrators smashed windows and tore down the red shirts' flag. Twenty-two persons received minor injuries.

The students gathered to demand the resignation of Tomas Garrido A. Canabal, founder of the red shirts and federal secretary of agriculture, whom they charged with responsibility for the slaying of five Catholics when they emerged from worship in suburban Coyocacan two Sundays ago.

Fifty red shirts are in the penitentiary, charged with the killings. The church's challenge to the government was made in a pastoral letter written in San Antonio, Tex., by the exiled papal delegate, Mr. Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores, in which he instructed Catholics not to permit their children to attend schools in which Socialistic education is taught.

Under a recent amendment to the constitution, Socialism must be taught in all public schools.

Dollar Value of All Retail Sales Better

New York, Jan. 8. —(AP)—An average gain of more than 16 per cent in the dollar volume of retail sales during 1934 as compared with 1933 is indicated in latest statistics.

The improvement is ascribed in part to a survey by Standard Statistics Co. to growing confidence in the future on the part of consumers, and to benefits derived by farmers from subsidies and relief payments.

A sharp upturn in holiday trade in almost every part of the United States brought the nation definitely out of the slump experienced between March and July, the figures indicate, with the greatest increase displayed in the agricultural districts.

RACKETS IN AFGHANISTAN

Up to a short time ago, villages in Afghanistan not infrequently used an unique method to enrich themselves. A holy man would be assassinated and buried with pomp and publicity. And thereafter for years the community collected heavily—in tolls and high prices—from the pilgrims who came to visit the shrine—Collier's Weekly.

Lovable

BEGIN HERE TODAY

ANN HOLISTER breaks her engagement to TONY MICKLE the same day that PETER KENNEL tells VALERIA BENNETT his fiancée, that everything is over between them. Ann thinks she still loves Tony and Peter believes she still loves Ann and away, leaving no trace of her whereabouts.

Peter desperately in love with her by this time, grows lonelier as the weeks pass. His efforts to locate Ann are fruitless.

She has found work as a governess in the home of MISS KENNEL, an aristocratic Englishwoman. Mrs. Tracy's brother is attentive to Ann.

Valeria, according to win Peter back, persuades him to hire Allan Vincent to decorate the home he bought for her. His family snubs Ann and Valeria tries to make trouble between Ann and Peter. She succeeds finally and Ann goes away, leaving no trace of her whereabouts.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XL

PETER raised his head. He had kissed Valeria and found her kiss sweet and ashes against his mouth. He said hoarsely, "Sorry. Val, for being a damn fool."

He started the car and drove recklessly, blindly while Valeria felt the tide of humiliation wash over her.

Peter had kissed her and then had turned away. He didn't want her kisses. If Peter had seen her eyes then he could not have missed the dangerous glow.

Peter left her at the door. Valeria did not urge him to come in. She wanted him to go. Her rage could not be held back much longer. If he stayed she would say irretrievable things. Let him go. Let the old house go. Let him stay away until loneliness drove him to her arms again. Next time he would not get away.

Peter went to Allan Vincent next morning, offering to settle the whole transaction for whatever the decorator thought the completed job would have been worth. "I realize this is queer business," Peter said, "but I don't want to go ahead. Neither do I want you to lose by it."

"He's quarreled with his girl," Allan decided. Allan spent the rest of the morning straightening out what he called the "mess."

He came home early in the afternoon, shut himself in his studio and began working on plans for another house.

As the afternoon wore on Allan became conscious that the house seemed unusually quiet.

Generally about this time he could look out and see Ann and the children engaged in some form of activity. The sandbox dotted with bright buckets was within range of his vision. Almost any day he could step to the window and watch a race or a golf game with the miniature equipment he had given Sonny last Christmas. Sometimes Ann would be sitting on the green bench under the tree with the children beside her.

HE heard the car on the drive just then and a moment later the children racing through the house. There was a knock on the door.

"Allan!"

"Come in."

Mrs. Tracy stood in the doorway.

a worried look on her face. Sissy came, climbing into his arms.

"Ann's gone," Sissy said.

Allan said nothing. "Deliver me from temperamental people, Allan!" Mrs. Tracy said petulantly. "At least from all temperamental people except myself."

"Great heavens. Can't you get to the point?"

"Ann gave up her job this morning, and asked me to drive her to town. I've spent all afternoon trying to get somebody else. Was it something you did?"

"Of course not. I'm in love with her. If that's what you mean."

"You're in love with Ann?"

"Why not?"

"I'm only surprised. You told her?"

"About a week ago. I think I fell in love with her the first time I saw her." He was sure he had. He had wanted to touch Ann's hair. Her lovely, clear skin. He had thought her hands, her arms and eyes were the most beautiful he had ever seen.

"I'm afraid the artist fell in love," Mrs. Tracy said slowly. "We artists love differently—and not constantly, Allan."

"If I had Ann I could get back my faith in things."

"I'm afraid there's no hope."

"Go ahead."

"I think she's married."

"Married?"

"Yes. I went to her door one night and opened it without knocking. She was sitting on the bed turning a little ring, a platinum wedding band, in her hand. When she saw me she closed her hand over it."

He gave a short, derisive laugh. "Married! Not such an innocent as I thought!"

After a moment he asked, "Where is she now?"

"I left her at a place called the Evans House—quite inexpensive. She said she would stay there until she decides what to do. Don't bother her right now. She's terribly upset about something."

"I have a little pride. She didn't even say goodbye."

"She didn't want to go by your office."

"Leave any message?"

"Just goodbye."

He was furious. All the fun they had had together, the days of companionship had counted for nothing. That was the way with women. His rage smoldered all evening.

He was sure Ann would not call his sister. He suspected she was relieved to get away.

BUT Ann did call. A month later

Mrs. Tracy reported to her brother, "Ann telephoned and I went to see her. She has a job in a funny little bookstore in a part of town you've probably never been in in your life. You have seen streets like it, though, where most of the goods is displayed on the outside. Think of an working in a dingy shop. Right next door there are trousers, shirts and what not hanging from the awning. And across the street an Italian vegetable and fruit stand. I can't see whatever possessed her."

"It probably was all she could get right now. Jobs aren't picked up every day."

"But she had a good place here. And to leave it to go to a bookstore!"

"Evidently she didn't like us."

Allan said darkly. "Could you blame her?"

AGRICULTURE

OF HOSPITAL

Puts the Institution on Self-Sustaining
Basis

(The sixth and last of a series of articles on the Dixon State Hospital.)

Agriculture is the principal industry of the Dixon State Hospital, and as in the lives of nations, acts as a force in placing the institution on a self-sustaining basis.

In connection with the hospital is a large farm of 1050 acres which is operated by employees assisted by a corps of about fifty patients, and 150 boys find work in the gardens during the summer months.

In the farm stables are 618 head of hogs, and 106 head of Holstein cattle. The institution farm furnishes the entire pork supply of the hospital, and an average of approximately 1000 chickens lay the necessary quota of 30,000 dozen fresh eggs annually, while about 1600 pounds of milk daily is obtained only one-third of which is used each day.

Have Staple Crops
Staple crops of the State Hospital farm are those of the typical Illinois farm. Corn, barley, and oats are raised, and over fifty tons of soy beans were harvested last year, despite abnormally dry conditions. In 1934, about 250 tons of alfalfa were harvested, while 1100 bushels of turnips and 2000 bushels of potatoes are raised annually. A wide variety of vegetables are canned each summer at the institution. The biggest output of canned goods is the tomato crop. Over 40,000 gallons of tomato pickles were canned in one year. Other vegetables canned include beans, of which 1655 gallons were put up in 1934, also 1216 gallons of green tomato relish, 114 gallons of catsup, 22 1/2 gallons of jelly, 50 gallons of pickles, 7860 gallons of tomato pulp, and 245 gallons tomato cold pack. Nearly all beef used at the Dixon State Hospital is bought from the outside, while some is transferred from southern institutions particularly Vandalla. Lard is entirely furnished by the Hospital farm and a large surplus of this product is transferred to other state institutions.

FRANK PRIEBE'S
WEEKLY LETTER
to
POULTRY RAISERS

Last week I remarked that judging from what I had seen, I thought that profits in poultry raising depended more on good management than they did on good markets.

It's true that I don't raise any chickens myself, but here is a lady who does—and she says the same thing!

This letter was received by the Prairie Farmer from a Mrs. Jordan who lives in DuPage County, Ill., and was passed on to me. I don't know Mrs. Jordan, but I think I'd like to hear what she says:

Mrs. Jordan's Letter
"In this week's Prairie Farmer I notice Mrs. Calhoun complaining because no money can be made on eggs. I want to say that if it hadn't been for the money I made on eggs in December, there wouldn't have been any toys under our Christmas tree.

"I have 138 pullets. On Christmas day those pullets laid 83 eggs. The eggs run more than two-thirds first grade.

"These pullets are heavy breed and were hatched in April.

"I also have 83 two-year-old hens making 221 altogether. These 221 hens have averaged from $10 to $12 a week profit all winter. Even when the old hens were molting they laid 15 to 20 per cent.

"These farmers who throw mongrel chickens a little whole grain, give them some ley water—and they run more than there is no profit in poultry give me a pain.

"I buy every bit of mash and grain and litter I use, give the chickens good care, produce first-class eggs, sell to first-class people, have a lot of fun out of my chickens—and make a 50 per cent profit!"

Which proves it can be done.

It seems that whether or not you make a profit on your poultry in 1935 depends almost entirely on you.

Sincerely yours,

Frank Priebe

BUTTERFAT FRANK
WONBYK SWARTS
LEECOUNTY HERD

Rockyford Dairy Has High Cow Record
With 68 Lbs.

The report of the Lee County Dairy Herd Improvement association for the month of December contains many interesting facts. The association averaged 30.4 lbs. butter fat. The herd of Keith Swarts ranks first with 39.0 pounds fat. The Rockyford dairy hold high cow record with 68.0 pounds fat.

There were 18 cows entered in the 500 pound fat club for the year 1934. Those that made the 500 pounds or more were owned by the following members: Keith Swarts, Dixon, a grade Holstein, made 508.4 pounds fat; Rockyford dairy, Amboy, three pure bred Holsteins making 574.1, 540.5, and 532.0 pounds fat; Vernon Pomeroy, Amboy, two grade Holsteins making 559.0 and 569.0 pounds; C. C. Buckaloo, Dixon, a grade Holstein making 542.2 pounds; Aaron Pluck, Dixon, two grade Guernseys making 535.1 and 507.2 pounds fat.

These cows were given ordinary farm care and fed balanced ration. They are the kind of cows that make the owner money. The way to get these cows is through proper breeding. By using sires from high producing cows and sires, then feeding according to production. A good ration contains 500 pounds corn, 200 pounds bran, 100 pounds ground soy beans and 100 pounds C. S. M. Feed one pound grain to four and one-half pounds milk to Holsteins and one pound fat to three and one-half pounds milk to Jerseys and Guernseys.

SOY BEANS WILL BE REPLANTED
ON STATE FARMS

Acreage To Be Increased
Because of Chinch
Bugs

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 8.—Soybeans is one of the few crops in which Illinois farmers will not face a serious seed shortage in the coming spring months, although there is not likely to be a large surplus supply available, in the opinion of J. C. Hackleman, crops extension specialist at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Because of the failure of most meadows and pastures seedlings in 1934, the continued threat of chinch bugs and the fact that soybeans may be seeded for harvest on land retired from corn production under the 1935 AAA corn-hog program, farmers will again increase their bean acreage this year, it is believed. This is expected to bring about an additional demand for soybean seed.

Illinois' 1934 soybean crop was the largest ever harvested, according to the annual state outlook report just released by the U. of I. College of Agriculture. The state led all others in production, being credited with 9,500,000 bushels, or 53 per cent of the national crop. The area grown for seed in Illinois last year was 501,000 acres, a 73 per cent increase over 1933. The national crop was also the largest on record, being estimated at 17,700,000 bushels. This was 52 per cent larger than the 1933 crop and 67 per cent more than the 1927-1931 five-year average.

At least two factors have contributed to the higher prices at which soybeans have been moving during the past fall and early winter months as compared with those of the corresponding period in 1933, explains Hackleman. Higher soybean oil and meal prices in 1934 have enabled processors to pay more for commercial beans. Then too, it is probable that another greatly increased acreage will be seeded in 1935. Remembering the threatened scarcity of bean seed last spring when prices skyrocketed, farmers in severely damaged drought areas have started buying seed supplies earlier than usual. New processing plants already constructed or to be built are expected to furnish additional outlets for soybeans in the future.

About half the 1934 Illinois soybean crop had been sold by December 1, leaving approximately 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 bushels in growers' hands, it is said. The anticipated acreage to be planted in Illinois in 1935 will require at least 2,000,000 bushels for seed. The demand will be augmented by a rather active demand from other states.

VISIBLE GRAIN SUPPLY
New York, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The visible supply of American grain shows the following changes in bushels, wheat decreased 2,901,000; corn decreased 1,455,000; oats decreased 237,000; rye decreased 265,000; barley increased 163,000.

Tunnels bored in the Boulder dam projects are so large an average five-story house could be moved through them without touching the roof or scraping the sides.

Traveling Around America

MARKET-ROUND

Indian maize or corn, and the cakes they make from corn meal—often mixing them all into a thick soup peppered up with red peppers. One of their favorite foods is a small potato to which they freeze and refreeze until all the liquid is dried out leaving only the nutritious part—which they call chuno. This mashed up like meal they often use to thicken soups. The booths where native foods are sold are one of the most illuminating sections in native markets and always of interest to travelers taking the weekly cruises between New York and South America. This interest, however, does not necessarily lead one to try out the gustatory delights of the natives, and most visitors, if they patronize the food stalls at all, prefer the luscious fruits.

PLAN PULLET CROP

(By A. G. PHILLIPS, Formerly Prof. in Charge of Poultry Husbandry, Purdue University.)

Efficient management demands that we now make plans for growing a satisfactory flock of pullets for next fall—at the beginning of the hatching season. In order to prove this statement let us take a concrete case as an example:

A poultry grower has housing capacity for 250 first class pullets and desires to have them in ten per cent production by October 1st, 1935. If they are Leghorns they are Leghorns they will be six months old; if they are the size of Plymouth Rocks they will be seven months old. This means that the Leghorns must be hatched April 1st, and the heavier breeds on Mar. 1st. A few days from these figures, either way, may make little difference because the factor of inherited rate of growth will alter any set plan.

The production of 250 good pullets means the growing to maturity of at least 300 females. This allows for seventeen per cent culling. Estimating that for every pullet there will also be a cockerel and that there will be about fifteen per cent mortality during the growing season, it will be necessary to hatch or purchase 700 baby chicks on one of the above mentioned dates.

If chicks of good breeding and vigor are desired on a definite date the order for them should be placed at least three weeks ahead of the time of delivery. Otherwise the grower may be disappointed and his chances of procuring eggs next fall, when prices are favorable will be reduced. Date of pullet maturity is too important to be overlooked or allowed to be delayed, just because proper plans were not made in January. If you wait to order chicks until a few days before you want them, you are taking the chance of procuring the number and quality that you want and you may lose money next fall. No good hatcheryman will hatch chicks this year, early in the season, beyond the number of advance orders received.

Seven hundred chicks will require two 10 x 12 feet brooder houses, each with a capacity of 350 chicks. They should be cleaned and properly equipped for brooding at least one week before the chicks are obtained. A feeding program to cover the entire growing season should be worked out in advance and one should have at least two weeks' feed supply on hand when the brooding season begins.

Too often we are inclined to work out our poultry problems as we go along, only to find that we are disappointed with the final results. Careful planning ahead of time will increase chances of success and it is well worth the time and trouble that it requires.

MOST DESOLATE ISLAND
Navarino is perhaps the most southern permanent abode of man. This desolate island and a number of others, such as Hoste, Yendegala, Capakus and Lennox, all near Cape Horn, form the political district of Navarino, Chile's outpost of civilization. North of these islands flows Beagle channel, made famous by Darwin's studies and the voyage of the British ship Beagle.

CHINCH BUGS WILL MENACE CROPS AGAIN

Farmers Urged To Plant Crops That Are Resistant

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Farmers were warned today that chinch bugs, which did damage estimated at more than $31,000,000 to Illinois crops last year, might be a bigger menace next summer.

The biggest hope is that May and June will be wet and cold enough to kill off the chinch bugs, said W. P. Flint, chief entomologist of the State Natural History survey.

Flint and other officials at the state university's College of Agriculture said the infestation is still heavy in most of the state and outlined three lines of attack to be followed by farmers, as follows:

Plant maximum acreage of crops on which chinch bugs do not feed, such as soybeans, alfalfa, clover, cowpeas, buckwheat, rape and other non-grass plants.

Arrange planting so that small grains and corn, so far as possible, will not be in adjoining fields, to reduce the length of chinch bug barriers needed.

Plant legumes in corn as well as alone.

Flint said that no natural development has materially reduced the number of chinch bugs and that there is little possibility that winter weather will kill the insects in their hibernating quarters.

URGE TERRACING
AS PREVENTIVE OF SOIL EROSION

Millions of Acres are Ruined By Loss of Good Soil

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 8.—Soil erosion would never have ruined 150,000,000 acres of far to good farm land at a cost of 400,000,000 a year to farmers of the United States, if more of them had followed the example of Louis Klotz, a St. Clair county farmer, says R. C. Hay, agricultural engineer at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Like other farmers who have cooperated with the college and their county farm advisers, Klotz has demonstrated that it is much easier and cheaper to conserve soil while it is rich in plant food than it is to rebuild it once the fertility has been washed away by erosion, Hay pointed out.

Until recently Klotz had been spending about two weeks annually filling in with straw and piling in small gullies that formed at the lower end of a 17-acre field. The land was in a high state of fertility, having produced as much as 90 bushels of corn to the acre. The field, however, had a slope of 6 to 9 per cent with a tendency to erode badly when under cultivation.

In spite of his efforts, Klotz began to realize that the gullies were gradually getting deeper and sheet erosion was taking off the fertile top soil all the way up the slope.

Through B. W. Tillman, farm adviser in St. Clair county, Klotz arranged to have a terracing demonstration held on his farm. With the aid of an extension specialist from the U. of I. College of Agriculture, three terraces were staked out and their construction started. Three more terraces are to be made lower down the slope at a later date. The three top terraces will take away nearly 50 per cent of the rain water that has heretofore washed down the slope, thus reducing the volume and velocity of the run-off. Soil and moisture will be saved, and the work required to fill the gullies each year will be eliminated.

The cost of terracing this field was much less than it would have been if the land had been neglected a few years and become badly gullied. Only a little work was required for fills at the points where terraces cross the gullies. The most significant fact is that the fertility of the land has not been lost. A soil-saving program has been launched in time to save it rather than try to rebuild the field after the top soil had been washed away, points out Hay.

Scandal in Nobility Jars Paris

A sensation that rocked Paris society was inspired when Princess Nadedja Tcherbatoff, 30, above, filed a $67,000 breach of promise suit against Count Louis de Brantes, 31, handsome Frenchman, demanding also an allowance from him as the alleged father of her 3-month-old daughter. Adding spice to the affair is the fact that the count recently wed Lady Melira Forbes, the late Oden Mills' granddaughter. The princess is the daughter of two of imperial Russia's oldest houses.
